

Alliance Geotechnical are committed to responsible management of information obtained or created whilst the carrying out its business activities on behalf of our clients.

If Alliance Geotechnical is required to by law or contractual arrangements to release confidential information in advance of notifying its clients it must notify the concerned party of what information has been released, unless prohibited by law.

Where information about our clients is obtained from sources other than the actual client, such as a complaint or a report from a regulatory body, this information must remain confidential between Alliance Geotechnical and the client.

Contracted parties acting on behalf of Alliance must keep confidential all information obtained or created during its business dealings, except as required by law.

Alliance Geotechnical will always obtain permission from its clients when making any information publicly available.

Thomas Dale
Managing Director