

Alliance Geotechnical recognises the importance of implementing workplace health and wellbeing initiatives to prevent poor health and lifestyle related diseases. Accordingly, we are committed to creating a workplace culture that supports and encourages healthy lifestyles and participation in a range of health and wellbeing initiatives and activities.

As part of the policy, Alliance Geotechnical will raise awareness within the workplace of the issues that impact on health and wellbeing, this may include displaying information on healthy eating, assisting employees to quit smoking and promoting short walks during lunch breaks.

Of course, culture is everything, and this why Alliance Geotechnical Management directly supports and encourages work-related social functions where drinking alcohol is not the primary focus and where activities may include movie screenings, team games or family fun days at a local park.

Thomas Dale
Managing Director